PERFORMANCE Ergonomics

Success

The good news is that most workplace injuries related to poor ergonomics are preventable. Successful ergonomic programs reduce injury rates an average of 70% while cutting costs and raising productivity and employee morale.

Targeted Assessments

We can identify and target the employees at greatest risk of injury and take proactive steps to mitigate the factors underlying those potential injuries.

Type 1- Workstation Audit

The audit is designed for lower-risk employees who need a little hands-on help to review the proper seated position and make minor workstation adjustments.

Type 2- Workstation Evaluation

The detailed, complete workstation evaluation is designed as either a preventative or post-injury measure. This in-depth evaluation gives you recommendations to reduce identified risk factors and ergonomic hazards.

Type 3- Workstation Follow Up

The follow up is designed to ensure that recommendations are implemented properly and that employee discomfort levels are decreased.

Program Development

We can help you review your current ergonomic program and create a long-term, strategic, customized plan for you.

What to Expect

Greater productivity, comfort and morale are just some of the benefits you can expect. Some additional benefits include:

Reduced

- healthcare costs
- absenteeism and time loss
- incidence and severity of injuries

Improved

- work quality
- bottom line
- worker retention

More Than Equipment

Each assessment offers an opportunity both to demonstrate proper workstation adjustment and to teach its benefits. We provide our services with an emphasis on people, not products.
